Questions for Human Migration Map

1. According to this map, on which continents can we expect to find evidence of early man?

2. According to this map, on which continent did early man originate?

3. According to this map, how long ago did early man migrate into Asia?
This map is a topographical map. It shows you the surface of the land including mountains, highland areas and river valleys. Using this map, answer the following questions.

- How is this map similar to the map you just viewed? How is it different?
- Why do you think early man might have originated in the highlands of Africa?
- What impact did geography (topography) have on the patterns of human migration?
- What resource does it appear early man was looking for?